The one bright light that has come out of this down economy is learning that America's innovative never-say-die entrepreneurial spirit is still strong. As the recession continues to take its toll on our economy, Americans are seeking ways of generating income by going back to school and/or gaining new job skills. Others see this time as an opportunity to become self-employed by starting new businesses or taking their existing business to a new level.

The supervisor's office has received numerous phone calls from District V residents who would like to know the first steps in starting their own business, from landscaping to providing computer repairs. The Small Business Development Center has also been receiving similar inquiries.

"I'm certain that the poor economy is making people who may have lost their jobs, or face reduced income, re-evaluate how they make a living," said Glover. "Being your own boss appeals to a lot of folks."

Since 98 percent of California's jobs originate in small business, said Supervisor Federal Glover, "I am proud to sponsor a seminar for those who would like to start their own business and/or those people who are just starting out in a new business and want to take the next step to improving their business."

The New / Small Business Seminar will be Sept. 26, 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Community Room of Los Medanos College in Pittsburg. Admission is free but pre-registration is required at the supervisor's website: www.cccounty.us/supervisorglover.
